John H. Myers & Son achieves Forest Stewardship Certification

(York, PA) John H. Myers & Son announced today that they have been awarded the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) Chain of Custody Certification – SCS-COC-002631. FSC is a nonprofit organization that ensures forestry is practiced in an environmentally responsible, socially beneficial, and economically viable way. Myer's certification maintains that the wood from certified forests is traced through all stages of processing and distributing. This provides consumers with the reassurance that the products purchased were harvested in a responsible manner.

To earn the certification, John H. Myers & Son provided evidence that:

- The FSC-certified wood is accounted for as it passes through all channels of their supply chain
- The FSC-certified wood is not mixed with other wood in order to avoid mistakes
- These products are labeled in a distinctive manner from other building materials
- Provide a use of recycled/reclaimed material

By becoming FSC Certified, John H. Myers & Son can now further help their local communities in their efforts to support healthy forests and reward responsible forestry.

In addition, the FSC certification will benefit builders and remodelers seeking structure certification from LEED and other green building programs.

Bob Myers III, president of John H. Myers & Sons states, "We want to support our builders, remodelers and homeowners wishing to be environmentally and socially responsible. As a growing pro-dealer with multiple locations, we can really have a positive impact on forestlands."

FSC-certified building products include a wide array of lumber, sheet goods, flooring, millwork, doors, windows, paneling and decking. For further information on FSC Certification and to see listing of qualifying products, please visit www.fsc.org.
